Takes Issue With Abbot On Discharge

Leo E. Pimpare of Ballardvale, recently discharged from the tree department by Tree Warden G. Richard Abbott, takes issue with the latter on some of the statements credited to him in the controversy.

Pimpare says that the tree warden sent him a letter while he was on vacation and the letter did not mention that he was being replaced by a veteran of the tree department. He claims town records will show that he was temporarily employed in the department prior to the employment of Herbert Lister, who, he says, has been made a pawn in this issue, and that the records will also show that he replaced Lister as a permanent employee last fall when the latter resigned to take a position elsewhere.

He also questioned Abbott's statement that the latter had not heard that Pimpare intended to oppose him at the election next March.

Pimpare further claims that John Lynch, Harry Reidy and Herbert Lister were discharged by Abbott because they advised him of their intentions to voice their disapproval of his discharge before the selectmen. The men since have been reinstated.

Juveniles Damaged Church Property

Police have apprehended three juveniles who smeared paint over walls and seats of St. Augustine's church about two weeks ago during the process of redecorating the interior of the edifice.

The three, it has been learned, are responsible for certain acts of vandalism which took place in the church just a few weeks later. It is expected that they will be arraigned later in juvenile court.

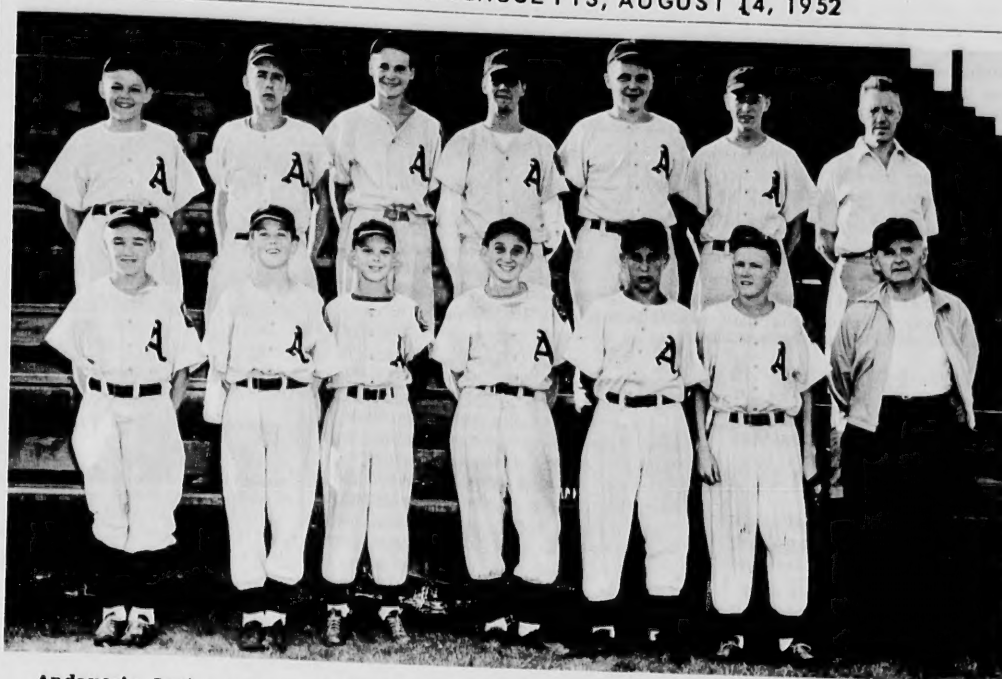

IN AIR FORCE

Richard Munroe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond A. Munroe of Lowell, and Frank Hart of S. Main st., listed in the air force and departed Monday for the Sampson air base at Geneva, N.Y., to serve for active duty. Hart is a veteran of the second World War.

Red Cross Appeals For Blood Donors

Calls for blood for the sick and the injured continue to be received at Red Cross headquarters. During the past week 19 pints were required for Andover people in local hospitals.

Blood supplies are so low that most of these needs had to be filled by calling upon people on the chapter's blood donor list to go directly to the hospital as walk-in donors, often at considerable inconvenience.

The blood situation is in a state of real emergency all over the country, a state which can be greatly alleviated by a renewal of active support of the blood collection program of the Red Cross.

Every one in Andover who is between the ages of 18 and 60 who can possibly do so is urged to register as a blood donor when the Red Cross bloodmobile visits here, on Monday and Tuesday, Sept. 22 and 23. The local Red Cross office will take your name at any time. Just call Andover 1496.

Extends Thanks To All Who Aided Little Leaguers

Pleased with the Andover Cardinal Little League team that has just closed a successful season financially and percentage-wise, League Commissioner Charles O. McCullom, representative of the Andover Boosters club, has a few comments to offer by way of appreciation.

"I wish," he told the Townsman, "to thank the following who have assisted in many ways to make Little League baseball possible in Andover:

"The Boosters who financed the league program; the businessmen who purchased advertising space on the fence, — this financed our farm teams; the board of public works whose cooperation was a great help in building our baseball

Playgrounds Hold Annual Field Day

The annual field day for the youngsters of the local playgrounds was held last week and for the first time a system of scoring was used by which it was determined the Central playground had won the inter-playground competition with a score of 158 points. The others were, Indian Ridge, 38, West Andover, 37, Shawsheen 27 and Ballardvale 12.

Also for the first time the dashes were clocked to establish a list of times to be taken as playground records. Parents of the children also participated in some special events.

The list of sports and the winners were as follows:

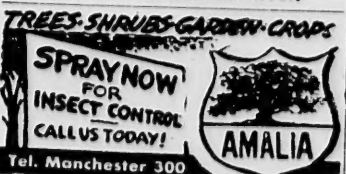

Toddler class — rubber ball race, girls under four; winners: Cynthia Gaudet, Lynda Coon and Donna Spinney; boys: John Cronin, first, and John Gaudet second.

In a candy kiss scramble for kindergarten group ages four, five and six, Judy Spinney was the winner, and Julie Leslie and Moira Proust tied for second place; boys: (Continued On Page Ten)

Town To Sell Old West School

The old West Center school building and equipment will be sold at public auction Saturday, Aug. 23, with provision that it will be removed from the site. The town will not sell the land.

The one-story building of two rooms has housed school classes for nearly 90 years. Pupils in that area now will attend the new elementary school on Beacon street.

Heavy Rains Bring End To Drought

A torrential downpour Sunday afternoon did much with rains of the past week to break the drought which caused considerable loss to local farmers while at the same time it eased the threatening forest fire hazard and put a check to the heavy pull on the town's water supply which earlier in the week had the level at Haggett's pond down more than 40 inches below normal.

Sunday's heavy downpour amounted to 1.80 inches, according to records of the Essex Co., at Lawrence. The rainfall in the past wet period was as follows:

Tuesday, Aug. 5 — .82

Wednesday, Aug. 6 — .93

Thursday, Aug. 7 — .14

Sunday, Aug. 10 — 1.80

August 12, 13 — 1.69

TOTAL 5.38

Sunday's rainfall was general throughout New England except in parts of Maine where it was not heavy enough to quench all the forest fires that had been burning for some time.

While truck farmers of Andover and throughout this area would lose a large percentage of their normal yield of crops the recent rains would be a big help to some of the second plantings for late crops.

In many heavily traveled areas Sunday, the skies opened and flooded streets and highways and slowed traffic of thousands of New England vacationists to a snail's pace. The late afternoon downpour came so heavily that catchbasins were unable to take the run-off quickly which caused great pools of water across scores of highways.

Locally there was very little damage caused by the storm and the board of public works had few minor spots to repair after it was over.

Political Signs To Be Removed

Political signs now beginning to appear outdoors in public and private places were the subject of a discussion by the selectmen at Monday's night's meeting.

All such signs that appear in public places in town will be removed and the selectmen are now looking into what authority they have to remove such signs from private property.

Many political signs in the past have been taken from public places and left at the police station until the owners called for them.

FINAL REGISTRATION FOR STATE PRIMARIES

As Friday, Aug. 15 will be the last chance for registration of voters before the state primary Tuesday, Sept. 16, a large number of prospective voters are expected to appear before the board of registrars at the session to be held from noon to 10 p.m. at the town house.

The West Parish church vestry was attractively decorated last Sunday afternoon for a reception which was tendered Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Ortstein, who are leaving Sept. 1 for Essex, Vt., where they are to make their future home. About 75 friends and members of the church gathered to wish them the very best of luck as they assume their new duties. Mrs. Elmer Peterson and Mrs. Herman Seinwerth had charge of the tea table. Members of the Junior Woman's union served dainty cookies and cake and the punch bowl was in charge of Mrs. Herbert Carter.

Wedding...

SOULE - BARNARD

White gladioli, snapdragons, candles, and evergreens decorated the altar of the South Congregational church for the 4 o'clock ceremony, Saturday, which united in marriage Miss Nancy Paradise Barnard, daughter of Mrs. William Shirley Barnard and the late Mr. Barnard of Central st., and Lawrence Clement Soule Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Clement Soule, 5 Roosevelt place, Montclair, N.J. The Rev. Frederick B. Noss officiated and a garden reception followed at the home of the bride's mother.

The bride was given in marriage by her cousin, Donald Barnard Cole. She wore a gown of imported white Chantilly lace scattered with rhinestones, over an ice-blue satin slip. The fitted bodice had an off-the-shoulder neckline appliqued with lace petals and rhinestones, and long pointed sleeves, and the bouffant skirt extended into a sweeping train edged with ruffled nylon tulle. Her full-length veil of French silk illusion cascaded from a small rhinestone crown and she carried a small colonial bouquet of white baby orchids and stephanotis.

Miss Patricia Perdue Barnard was her sister's maid of honor, and wore a black and gold nylon tulle gown, made with a bouffant skirt and a redingote embroidered with white and gold daisies. With it she wore a shrug jacket and a matching platter hat and mitts and carried yellow daisies. The bridesmaids, gowned similarly, but carrying white daisies, were Miss Constance Whittier Cole and Miss Joan Foster Barnard, cousins of the bride, Miss Carol J. Lewis and Mrs. Donald S. Burns of Andover; and Miss Nancy MacGilvrey of Lawrence.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Barnard wore a gunmetal sheer gown over blush pink chiffon with a matching hat and accessories and a corsage of pink camellias. Mrs. Soule, the bridegroom's mother, was gowned in rose-beige lace with a brown hat and accessories and her corsage was also pink camellias.

Norton Babson of Essex Fells, N.J.; Reginald Marsh of Pittstown, N.J.; and Richard Walker Lally and Douglas Neilson Howe of Andover.

The bride attended Abbot academy and Pine Manor Junior college. The bridegroom prepared at Montclair academy and attended Lehigh university. He is a member of Sigma Chi fraternity. After a wedding trip to Bermuda, they will live in Essex Fells, N.J.

Andover Expands Its Bequest

Andover is a complete town, with rich heritage. Those who live within its borders love "their" little community and are appreciative of the God-given beauties, which have been so thoughtfully embellished by man's efforts.

Andover was a thriving township long before most of its present residents and their fathers were born. And yet, the current inhabitants of Andover have witnessed marked advances in the town's every facet of existence in their lifetimes and even in the Post World War II days.

How gratifying to know that "our" little community has been great, is great and promises to be even greater. How uninspiring it would be to think we were standing still, even though stalemated in a pleasant status.

July building permits indicate that further Andover construction to the tune of $430,000.00 was contemplated in that 31 day period. Andoverites were pleased to hear that this amount established an all-time record for that month. How comforting to learn, also, that this expected construction will be 100 per cent taxable. Thirteen homes were issued permits for their erection in that month, an impressive argument that Andover is attractive to nice people wishing to build good homes.

Living in a wonderful little town, which has been handed down by sacrificing and energetic forebears, is much like being left heir to a fortune. It is the fool who would dissipate his legacy. It is the dullard who would just sit back and enjoy it. — That's right, Andover has been and will be expanding its bequest.

An optimist is a person who expects a rebate from the high cost of living.

NEW BOOKS

Return to Chesterton, Ward.

A fascinating medley of letters and anecdotes revealing Chesterton in relation to all kinds of people — the barber, the taxi driver, his secretaries, young people, his colleagues.

The Private Papers of Senator Vandenberg, Vandenberg.

A selection from the diaries, letters and scrapbooks which Vandenberg kept from Pearl Harbor to his death in 1951. Source material by a man who made a tremendous contribution to our bipartisan foreign policy, this book is important reading for an understanding of these ten years when the United States forsook its isolationist tradition and assumed world leadership.

"Keep Your Head Up, Mr. Putnam!" Putnam.

Blinded in a shooting accident, shortly before his 21st birthday, the author records with humor and detachment his experiences in becoming adjusted to his blindness.

Cyclone in Calico, Barker.

A biography, showing careful research of one of the most picturesque, although little known figures of the Civil War, the first field hospital nurse in our military history, Mother Bickerdyke.

After All, Angell.

Despite an unattractive format, a witty and holding book in which the author describes his background and the influences that shaped his future. His autobiography, as he puts it, might be regarded as a "tale of adventure in search of a sort of moral and intellectual North-West passage."

Boswell in Holland, 1763 - 1764, Boswell.

This begins where his "London Journal" ended. Although much of his journal was lost in his lifetime enough other material has survived with which to reconstruct the whole story.

inducted into the armed forces, resigns as head of local defense committee.

Warden coverage poor in recent daylight test. Andover has enough for night duty but must recruit more to serve in day time.

George A. Higgins, for many years town clerk and treasurer for Andover, has moved to Rockport where he will make his home.

Local housewives again reminded that a tin can salvage drive is to be held Saturday and Sunday.

So Long To Learn, Masfield.

This partial autobiography reveals the influences that shaped his literary career and the places and writers that were important to his literary growth.

Wilkie Collins, Robinson.

Generations of readers have enjoyed "The Moonstone" and "The Woman in White" without knowing much about the man who wrote them. This is in fact the first full length biography to be written about Collins who was a close friend of Dickens and Charles Reade.

DEFENSE PRODUCTION

The new telephone dispatch system at American Steel and Wire Division, U. S. Steel in Worcester speeds the daily movement of over 1000 tons of raw material. Locomotives - via mobile radio telephone - get orders from dispatch centers, quickly shuffle materials from stock piles to open hearth furnaces. The telephone dispatch system assures uninterrupted defense production and makes it possible to turn out steel in shorter time. This is just one of the many ways the telephone works for defense.

DEFENSE ORDERS demand increased telephone service. To speed production of portable radio military telephones, a new centralized dial system has been installed at the busy Raytheon plant in Waltham, Mass.

Throughout New England the ever increasing telephone needs of manufacturers of radar and electronic equipment, precision tools, drills and textile machinery - to name but a few - are being met in record time.

Today - business, industry, the military and the public are more dependent than ever on the telephone. And, telephone people intend to provide the best telephone service in the quickest possible time at the lowest possible cost.
